You're Invited to Attend Information Meetings About the Bally Groundwater Contamination Superfund Site Cleanup

The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) is evaluating the current treatment system at the Bally Borough, Berks County, Pennsylvania, municipal water supply. This action is being taken because a solvent, called 1,4-dioxane, was recently detected in the municipal water supply at very low levels. Although these levels do not present an immediate health concern, an ongoing effort is underway to identify an alternative source of drinking water for the Borough. In the meantime, American Household, Inc. has offered to provide bottled water to consumers on a voluntary basis.

Please stop by our informal information sessions at your convenience and talk with representatives of the Borough, EPA, PADEP, or American Household, Inc. about the water quality issues on:
